Description

Allan Hansen, Still life of of Japonica.

Hansen was a painter of many different subjects during the middle to end period of the 20th century. He painted many still lives and this subject may well have been his best.

This is an oil on artists panel and is a veery good example of the artists work,

The tone used by the painter has achieved a well balanced pleasing piece and would brighten up any interior.

The painting is framed in its original frame.
